Terra Search Partners

We created Terra Search Partners in 2006 as a boutique search firm focused exclusively on the real estate business with an absolute focus on, and commitment to, exemplary work. Most everybody will claim that goal, so I want to sincerely articulate the meaning of this focus and the guiding principals and values of Terra Search Partners.

The senior professionals at Terra Search Partners come from the real estate business. We know the business. We understand the business. We understand the drivers. We care. This is our world and our clients are our long term peer group, so every assignment and indeed all interactions have long term consequence.

We treat every assignment and interaction as a building block for our business and reputation. So, the stakes are high.

Of course, our clients come first. But we work hard to treat our candidates and sources with that same level of respect. We work hard to communicate transparently and to provide meaning in interactions throughout our work including clients, candidates and sources.

How does search work? In the model search, we call a hundred people, we interview ten, the client interviews 4-6, and we finalize with one person. But it's rarely so cut and dry. Search more frequently follows the twists and turns that are inevitable when dealing in human endeavors. The twists and turns are where this firm shines and adds value.

As President and member of Wishrock's Executive Committee, Rick is responsible for business development and the formulation of the company's investment and development strategies while also being responsible for the day-to-day operations of the enterprise, from ensuring audits are completed and submitted accurately and on time to making sure there is plenty of TP in the washrooms. While Rick's primary real estate expertise is in acquisition and rehabilitation of affordable housing, over the course of his career he has experience in new construction, adaptive reuse, urban planning and development, commercial development, and mixed-use development.

Rick loves living in Missoula, Montana where he spends his free time trail running with his wife, fishing, hiking, hunting, backpacking and generally spending as much time outdoors in the mountains as possible. When he isn't preserving affordable housing or playing in the mountains he is usually either reading a good book or petting one of his two German Shepherds (or both).

Prior to working in the field of real estate development, Rick taught entrepreneurship and strategic management at the University Of Montana School Of Business. He currently serves on the boards of several Missoula non-profit organizations where he most recently led successful funding campaigns to build a new homeless shelter and a new food bank.

Rick holds a Master's in Business from The University of Montana, a Master's in Fine Arts from New England College, and a bachelor's degree in human ecology from the College of the Atlantic.

Wishrock

Wishrock develops and invests in affordable housing properties nationwide. Collectively, our principals have developed or redeveloped over 11,000 units of affordable apartment housing since the early 1970's.

Wishrock specializes in preserving affordable and work-force housing apartment complexes by leveraging tax credits or private capital with government backed debt, grants or other soft funding sources. Levels of rehabilitation vary depending upon the physical needs and acquisition strategy.

Wishrock's primary focus is on preserving quality affordable housing for low-income and working-class residents; we have never terminated a subsidized rent contract. We take great pride in preserving the affordability of the communities we redevelop and, in our commitment to doing so, we place great emphasis on both improving the quality of the lives of our residents through dedicated empowerment services and operating at the forefront of sustainability. Our resident service programs are augmented and partially subsidized by our affiliated non-profit partners, and while some resident service coordination positions are funded through grants, more typically they are funded voluntarily by Wishrock through a capital reserve built into the acquisition financing. Our sustainability department is reflective of a deeply held core value and integral to our corporate culture, as a member of the Department of Energy's Better Buildings Challenge, we are committed to reducing energy consumption by 20% by the year 2024 across our portfolio.
